Description

PolyU's School of Design, designed by architect Zaha Hadid, is located in the heart of Hong Kong, close to major attractions. A Buddy system provides exchange students with support during their stay in Hong Kong, and students are also assigned a PolyU staff member to act as a 'host family'. Exchange students are studio-based, working alongside the School's 1200 students.

The Institute of Textiles and Clothing (ITC) is home to multiple laboratories undertaking cutting-edge research into finishing, colouring, dyeing, and textile care, and also has its own fashion gallery. The Institute has strong partnerships with the business and industrial sectors, and 30 global exchange partners.

Surrounding Area

Hong Kong is a vibrant, diverse city seen by many as a gateway to the Chinese mainland. It has a vibrant shopping scene with a mix of modern shopping malls and traditional markets. Cultural festivals take place throughout the year - Lunar

New Year celebrations in February being the undisputed highlight.
