Surrounding Area

Beijing, capital of China, is one of the fastest growing and changing cities in the world. Yet it also has history that stretches back 3000 years. The bustling streets are home to both the latest shopping experiences and ancient Chinese marketplaces. Just outside the city, the Great Wall of China stretches along the north of the country whilst sights such as the Forbidden City and Tiananmen Square lie within it. Notable cultural events include Chinese New Year - expect to see the whole population pour out on to the streets to celebrate.
