Description

A small and prestigious school of Architecture and Landscaping Design established in 1877, ENSAPBX offers modules closely matching UWE's and offers good quality teaching and learning. It's facilities include a media library, model workshop, and large computer lab.

Surrounding Area

This port city in Southwest France is the capital of the French wine industry and its historic city centre is listed by UNESCO as 'an outstanding urban and architectural ensemble' of the 18th Century. As well as its architecture, students can enjoy its galleries, museums, shops and nightlife. The University's campus is located in the suburb of Talence, the city's University quarter, close to UWE's other Bordeaux partners including Science Po Bordeaux and KEDGE School of Business.
