Description

Université François Rabelais is a large University in the small city of Tours. The University has 378 exchange agreements in 26 European countries and welcomes 2,500 students each year. Its faculty of Engineering offers an Urban and regional planning programme taught entirely in English. The city, just 1hr 30 from Paris is filled with tourist attractions and incoming students can participate in their programme of cultural events across the academic year.

Surrounding Area

Greater Tours is the largest city of the Centre region. It is 55 minutes from Paris by high-speed train. Thanks to its direct rail link to the Charles-de-Gaulle international airport (less than 2 hours away) and its own airport (with direct connections to London and Dublin) Tours is well-connected with the world while still enjoying its location in the heart of the Loire Valley château country, a UNESCO world heritage site.
